ANNEX TO
REGULATION OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF INDONESIA
NUMBER 8 OF 2026
ON
THE NATIONAL ACTION PLAN ON PREVENTING AND COUNTERING VIOLENT EXTREMISM THAT LEADS TO TERRORISM 2026-2029

A. BACKGROUND

The commitment of the Unitary State of the Republic of Indonesia in countering Terrorism is an important part of the mandate of Pancasila, as a way of life as well as the parent of all sources of law. This is also part of the effort to achieve the national goals, especially in protecting all the people and the homeland of Indonesia, as well as participating in implementing the world order, as emphasized in the Preamble to the 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia. In fact, Article 28G paragraph (1) of the 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia has specifically emphasized that everyone reserves the right to a sense of security and protection from the threat of fear. Furthermore, this commitment has been institutionalized through Law Number 15 of 2003 on Enactment of Government Regulation in Lieu of Law Number 1 of 2002 on Eradication of Criminal Acts of Terrorism to Become Law as amended by Law Number 5 of 2018 on Amendment to Law Number 15 of 2003 on Enactment of Government Regulation in Lieu of Law Number 1 of 2002 on Eradication of Criminal Acts of Terrorism to Become Law.

The development of Terrorism as a global threat is directly proportional to the increasing situation that supports the emergence of violent extremism. This condition is supported by the ease with which terrorist groups spread their ideology through various means of communication, both in real-world (offline) meetings as well as information and communication technology-based instruments, especially the internet (online). This method has proven effective in disseminating propaganda and extreme understanding aimed at influencing the public to sympathize with and support terrorist acts. These terrorist groups have even actively and continuously recruited Indonesian citizens, targeting them to join the activities of Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism, and is involved in acts of terror, including the recruitment and involvement of women and children.

The implementation of Presidential Regulation Number 7 of 2021 on Preventing and Countering Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism 2020-2024 (Presidential Regulation on NAP on PCVE 2020-2024) which ends in 2024, is a form of government commitment to provide a sense of security for the public from the threat of Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. The implementation of the Presidential Regulation on NAP on PCVE 2020-2024 is a government effort carried out systematically and in an integrated manner to prevent criminal acts of Terrorism as mandated in Law Number 5 of 2018 on Eradication of Criminal Acts of Terrorism and is also part of the effort to achieve the national goals as stated in the Preamble to the 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia, namely to protect all the people and the homeland of Indonesia, as also stated in Article 28G paragraph (1) of the 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia which provides an affirmation that every person "is entitled to a sense of security and protection from the threat of fear".

Along with the end of the implementation of Presidential Regulation on NAP on PCVE 2020-2024, several important evaluation results indicate that the implementation of the NAP on PCVE 2020-2024 has made a positive contribution to the government's efforts to eradicate criminal acts of Terrorism in Indonesia. From 2020 to 2024, recorded terrorist attacks in the last 2 years have reached zero terrorist attacks, this record is in line with the 2025 Global Terrorism Index (GTI) which places Indonesia in 30th position out of 163 countries and is categorized as a country with a medium impact. This decrease in terrorist incidents may not necessarily mean that the threat of Terrorism is no longer relevant in Indonesia, because during the same period, it was recorded that efforts to arrest more than 1,000 suspected terrorists had been carried out in various regions in Indonesia as a portrait of the remaining high activity of terrorist groups and potential threat of Terrorism which continues to develop dynamically and appears as an iceberg phenomenon.

This action plan aims to address the drivers of Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism, namely (1) conducive conditions and structural context; and (2) the process of radicalization. Conducive conditions and structural context as driving factors include economic inequality, marginalization and discrimination, poor governance, human rights violations and weak law enforcement, prolonged conflict, and radicalization within correctional institutions. The conducive conditions and structural context considered in this action plan are also related to emerging issues such as climate change, cyberspace, and others. Meanwhile, the process of radicalization is broken down into several factors, including individual background and motivation, positioning oneself as a victim (victimization), collective disappointment, and distortion of certain understandings. In addition to these factors, there are also a number of barriers that need to be overcome collaboratively. One of the main barriers is the fear of threats to personal security and safety if an individual chooses to leave the group, because of the risk of being seen as a traitor. Furthermore, the negative stigma inherent in society or the social environment often creates social rejection of individuals who attempt to leave Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. Consequently, these barriers may cause individuals to remain in that environment.

Meanwhile, in Indonesia, several key factors that may be identified as underlying the growth and development of Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism include (1) the high potential for communal conflict based on primordial and religious sentiments; (2) economic disparity; (3) differences in political views; (4) unfair treatment; and (5) intolerance in religious life.

Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism may be defined as beliefs and/or actions that use violent means or threats of extreme violence with the aim of supporting or committing acts of Terrorism. Furthermore, Preventing and Countering Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism are systematic, planned, integrated, and sustainable efforts to prevent and counter Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism.

In order to continue efforts to respond to issues related to Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism, it is necessary to establish a NAP on PCVE 2026-2029. The existence of the NAP on PCVE is expected to serve as a guide in addressing the driving factors of Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. The NAP on PCVE complements various laws and regulations related to the eradication of criminal acts of Terrorism and its implementation is in line with other national action plans such as the National Action Plan for Human Rights (RAN HAM) and the National Action Plan for the Protection and Empowerment of Women and Children in Social Conflict (RAN P3AKS). The NAP on PCVE serves as a guide for coordination between ministries and institutions in synergy to increase deterrence and overcome Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism.

The NAP on PCVE is a counter-terrorism effort that prioritizes a soft approach to combating Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. The actions contained in the NAP on PCVE are a series of coordinated programs implemented by various ministries/institutions to mitigate Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. In this regard, the NAP on PCVE complements various national laws and regulations related to criminal acts of Terrorism.

The need for a comprehensive approach to counter-terrorism reaffirms the importance of formulating a national action plan that aligns the roles and functions of each ministry/institution in combating Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. To address this need, the NAP on PCVE outlines steps to combat Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. The NAP on PCVE focuses not only on addressing the factors that trigger extremism but also on strengthening overall community resilience, particularly the resilience of vulnerable groups. Vulnerable groups, in this context, are individuals or groups within society who, due to age, gender, disability, socio-economic conditions including extreme poverty, education, discrimination, geographic location, experience of violence, or other marginalization, are at higher risk of being influenced, recruited, or propagated by extremist views that justify acts of violence motivated by political, ideological, and security threats, in combating Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism.

The process of developing this action plan involved various relevant stakeholders, including ministries/institutions and civil society. Therefore, this NAP on PCVE is expected to serve as the primary reference for implementing countermeasures against Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism by each relevant ministry/institution. The development and implementation of this NAP on PCVE emphasize the comprehensive involvement of government and society (a whole-of-government and whole-of-society approach).

This approach is an integral part of the soft approach and hard approach in combating terrorism. Whole-of-government refers to horizontal and vertical coordination within the government, involving all state institutions, both central and regional, to respond in an integrated manner to the national issue of Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. Whole-of-society refers to the involvement of all levels of society including the private sector, media, civil society organizations, academics, religious and traditional leaders, local communities, and individuals to prevent Violent Extremism that Leads to Terrorism. The involvement of various levels also includes the business sector, among which the newly involved in this action plan are the Investment Management Agency (BPI) Danantara through operational holdings, investment holdings, and/or State-Owned Enterprises (SOEs). The intended community involvement is both passive in nature where the government involves existing community stakeholders and active involvement where the community, including civil society organizations, initiates the PCVE Actions activities together with the government. Activities involving the community in the PCVE Actions include, but are not limited to: (1) policy dissemination; (2) increasing the institutional capacity of community groups and organizations to be actively involved in preventing criminal acts of Terrorism; (3) increasing the quality of human resources; (4) developing sustainable programs; and (5) providing non-binding resource support in accordance with the provisions of laws and regulations.
